

TFSA & RRSP Contributions: What you need to know

To start, it's best to confirm your personal contribution limits by checking your Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) notice of assessment, which you can find from the CRA directly online at <https://www.canada.ca/en/revenue-agency/services/e-services/e-services-individuals/account-individuals.html>, or, by calling 1-800-959-8281.

TFSA

The 2022 TFSA contribution limit is $6,000. If you have never contributed to a TFSA and meet the eligibility requirements, the current, cumulative total you can deposit is $81,500.

If you made withdrawals in 2021, you can recontribute that same amount effective January 1st, 2022. If you have unused carry forward room, you can contribute it to your TFSA at any time (unused contributions roll over each year).

Ways to contribute

There are a few different ways you can contribute to your TFSA and RRSP accounts. Reach out to your Mawer Investment Team to assess your current contribution room and investment options. Be sure not to overcontribute to your accounts as they will be subject to a punitive tax of 1% per month.

Contribute from your bank account

We can pull the funds directly from your bank account electronically.

Contribute from another Mawer account

We can move funds from another Mawer account, such as a taxable account. Your Investment Team will be able to provide more details on any potential tax implications.

Contribute regularly

We can set up regular contributions. For example, you could contribute $500 each month to your TFSA, bringing it up to $6,000—the 2022 maximum—by the end of the year. If you would like to set up regular contributions or make changes to any existing regular contributions, please contact your Investment Team.

This is a general guideline only. For more information, taxpayers should refer to the CRA's website <http://www.cra-arc.gc.ca/menu-e.html> or call 1-800-959-7383.
